Centuries before great ships were ever dreamed about, long before the dawn of Western civilization, a nomadic tribe from Northern Africa set out to seek a New World, a land of peace and plenty.

The tribe wandered for many years in search of such a magical place, and at last, their quest was rewarded. The land they discovered to the South became the legendary Valley Of The Sun, known today as The Valley Of Waves.

Not only did they bring with them a rich culture, but also architectural skills, which were exceptional, even by today's standards. Something special was created; from the jungle rose an amazing city with a magnificent Palace, a world richer and more splendid than any they had ever known. Then a violent earthquake struck this idyllic valley, the survivors fled, never to return and left it to be found and restored by archaeologists centuries later. Today it has been restored to its former glory.

History was made in 1979 when Sun City was opened in the North West to become the best holiday resort in South Africa, and for good reason.

Comprising four hotels, a casino, an entertainment center, a convention center and much more. It is home to the Valley of Waves and is sprawled along the border of the Pilanesberg National Park (for a Big Five safari). Sun City Resort enjoys the fine distinction of being the only surf-and-safari destination within a 2.5hour drive of landlocked Johannesburg.

ACCESS

Sun City is located approximately 2.5hrs drive from OR Tambo International Airport, Johannesburg by coach. Alternatively charter flights can be arranged to Pilanesberg Airport, conveniently located 10 km outside Sun City.

Another unique mode of transport is by Rovos Rail, a luxury train, which can be chartered from Pretoria.

The weather in the Pilanesberg is pleasant throughout the year. Summers are very hot with late afternoon showers and winter brings cold mornings and evenings but wonderful warm dry days. The Pilanesberg's summer months bring the most rain between mid-September and April. However, this is ever-changing due to global warming.

When visiting the Pilanesberg to enjoy game viewing, the best time of year is early in the morning during spring and summer. Sun City and the Pilanesberg National Park are malaria-free areas.
