Map of Cape Town

Introduction

The City of Cape Town - one of the most beautiful cities in the world featuring a cosmopolitan beat with scenic splendor.

It's grandeur is staged with the backdrop of Table Mountain, glorious beaches, enchanting vineyards, rugged land and seascapes, and a unique collection of fauna and flora.

Cape Town is renowned for its warm hospitality, fine dining, award-winning wines and a diverse cosmopolitan culture.

Easy Access

Scheduled international flights arrive daily into Cape Town International Airport from other regions of Africa, Europe, the UK, Middle East, Australasia, Far East as well as North and South America. Some of the flights use Johannesburg as their hub. There are regular, daily domestic flights from Johannesburg & Durban taking approximately 2 hours. There are also daily flights into the various safari regions.

On arrival in Cape Town the journey from the airport to the city centre takes around 25 minutes. There is also the option of a helicopter transfer from the airport to the V&A Waterfront.

Climate

The weather is not really a critical factor in deciding when to visit Cape Town. Great extremes of temperature are unknown, although it can be relatively cold and wet for a few months in winter - June, July and August. One of the Cape's most characteristic phenomena is the famous Cape Doctor, a south-easterly wind that descends on the Cape and lays Table Mountain's famous 'tablecloth' (a layer of cloud that covers the mountain). It can be a welcome breeze in summer, but can also reach gale force, particularly in spring. In winter, between June and August, pleasant, sunny days are scattered between the gloomy ones. From September to November, as summer rolls around again, the days are mostly warm and sunny, but it can often still be quite windy.

The wildflowers are at their best during August and September. December to March can be very hot, although a gentle breeze ensures pleasant conditions.

From March to April, and to a lesser extent in May, the weather remains good and the wind is at its most gentle.

Dining Out

The cosmopolitan atmosphere of Cape Town is captured by many restaurants, which reflect a great variety of traditions. Cape Malay cooking, with its spicy delicacies, is very much part of the popular culinary scene. One may relish the novelty of New World cuisine or savour the wealth of the authentic Dutch cooking. Chinese, Japanese, Taiwanese and Indian cuisine is all within walking distance of one another whilst the nationalities of Europe jostle dish by dish and so one may find the subtle nuances of the French kitchen, the robust flavours of Italian fare or the hearty roasts of an English Squire. Here in the city one can also find the pioneering and colonial platters of the Americas or the national dishes from Bulgaria and Turkey.

Whether you wish to enjoy a lobster whilst viewing the sea and Table Mountain as a backdrop, a venison dish in a cosy Victorian atmosphere, watch the tugs guide in a new arrival whilst eating calamari steaks, or sampling a traditional plate of bobotie whilst sipping a glass of good Cape wine - all is possible.
