Map of Tanzania

Introduction

Tanzania

Tanzania is East Africa's largest country, bordered by Kenya and Uganda to the north; Rwanda, Burundi, and the Democratic Republic of the Congo to the west, and Zambia, Malawi, and Mozambique to the south. A land of geographical extremes, Tanzania comprises the highest peak in Africa (Mount Kilimanjaro), the lowest point (the lake bed of Lake Tanganyika), and a portion of the largest lake (Lake Victoria, shared with Uganda and Kenya) on the African continent. Tanzania is home to several national parks and game reserves where you can see some of the finest African flora and fauna. Safaris in Tanzania can be put into two categories, the Northern Circuit (Serengeti, Ngorongoro, Manyara and Tarangire) and the Southern Circuit (Selous, Mikumi and Ruaha). This is certainly an over simplification and does not include other interesting but harder to reach parks such as Katavi and Gombe, just to name two. Sun-filled and beautiful days are not all that Tanzania has to offer. On the contrary, the country's borders hold a vast number of people and tribes whose varied cultures and traditions

Easy Access

These days there are many ways to travel to Tanzania. Overland railways connect the country, the roads are easy to navigate and well maintained, cruise ships and passenger liners stop frequently at the ports, and international air carriers arrive and depart daily from the many airports located around the country. The largest International hub is at Dar es Salaam (Julius Nyerere International Airport), however, Kilimanjaro International Airport (JRO) serves the Kilimanjaro area including the cities of Arusha and Moshi near Mount Kilimanjaro . The airport is the gateway to Africa's wildlife heritage in particular Mount Kilimanjaro, Arusha National Park, Ngorongoro Crater , and Serengeti National Park. Currently, international airlines that fly to Dares Salaam include Rwanda Air, Qatar Airlines, Etihad, Kenya Airways, Emirates, Turkish Airlines, Egypt Air , KLM, Swiss Airlines, Fast Jet and South African Airways. Other international air carriers fly to Nairobi, where there are daily connections to Arusha and Dar es Salaam. KLM, Qatar , Rwanda Air and Ethiopian Airways fly direct to Kilimanjaro International Airport, Turkish Airlines, Kenya Airways and Precision Air for best access to the safari route. Arusha Municipal Airport is located 1 hours drive from Kilimanjaro International Airport and is used as a hub for both scheduled and charter flights into the Serengeti and other domestic regions.

Tanzania Climate

Tanzania's weather varies from humid and hot in low lying area, such as Dares Salaam, to hot during the day and cool at night in Arusha. There are no discernible seasons, such as winter and summer -- only the dry and wet seasons. Tanzania has two rainy seasons: The short rains from late-October to late-December, known as the Mango Rains, and the long rains from March to May.

June to August: This is the tail-end of the long rainy season and the weather is at its best at this time of year -- bear able during the day and cool in the evening. However, this is not necessarily the best time of year for safaris, as water is plentiful in the parks and animals are not forced to congregate in a few locations to rehydrate, as they do in the middle of the dry season right after Christmas.

November to February: The best time to visit the Serengeti for the migration are the months of November and April through July. It is usually at this time that huge herds of Wildebeest, Zebra and Buffalo migrate to better grazing areas. At this period you could observe some of the 1.5 million Wildebeest that inhabit the Serengeti undertake their epic journey. Be advised though that this is most likely the hottest time of year in Tanzania. The wildebeest and zebra usually have their young in February and March, which is always a thrill to witness.

HIGHLIGHTS

Highlights

The Serengeti & Great Migration

Tanzania has three safari circuits, each one contributing to Tanzania's reputation as a top wildlife destination. The most popular Northern circuit, with the Serengeti and Ngorongoro Crater offers one of the best classical safaris in Africa, especially if timed with the annual wildebeest migration. The Serengeti is one of the most famous parks in Africa and is synonymous with wildlife and classic African scenery. It is Tanzania's oldest park and a Unesco World Heritage Site. It is home to the spectacular wildebeest migration and offers top-class wildlife viewing throughout the year. Every year, over 2 million wildebeest, zebra and gazelle migrate from the Serengeti to the Masai Mara Reserve in Kenya. If you're there at the right time, you can spot herds of wildebeest and zebra stretching to the horizon.

Hot Air Ballooning

Experience the breathtaking beauty of the Serengeti National Park on a once-in-a-lifetime hot air balloon flight. At dawn, rise as the sun greets the day and float in whichever direction the winds of the morning take you. Your pilot can precisely control the altitude of your balloon: sometimes flying at treetop height, sometimes lower, offering a unique perspective and great photographic opportunities of the wildlife below. At other times you will probably ascend to 1000' or more to see the vast magnificence and spectacular panorama of the Serengeti. At the end of the exhilarating experience enjoy a traditional champagne breakfast in the bush. As the sweetness and aroma of the African coffee or tea surrounds you, you hope for another ride, and wish that such luxury never ended. Each guest will receive a certificate proving they were brave enough to take on the Serengeti by balloon.

Highlights

Lake Manyara

Lake Manyara National Park is a small park at the base of the Rift Valley escarpment. Its groundwater forest offers a contrast from the more savannah-dominated parks. Although the park is known for tree-climbing lions, big cats aren't that easily seen. Elephant are prolific and are the main attraction. Buffalo, giraffe and several antelope species are also easily encountered on a drive.

Lake Manyara is a shallow, alkaline lake at the base of the Western Rift Valley escarpment. The park entrance leads to a beautiful groundwater forest. Other habitats include the grassy floodplain, rocky escarpment and acacia woodland, all of which are often covered in a half - day visit.

Ngorongoro Crater

A visit to the Ngorongoro Crater is an experience of a lifetime. There are few places that have wildlife densities and variety on this level. It is not unusual to see the Big Five in one day – and all this in the most amazing setting with a backdrop of the 600m/1,968ft -high crater wall.

The resident population of black rhino is a real treat, as rhino are very difficult to spot elsewhere in Tanzania. The crater is also home to some very impressive elephant bulls with huge tusks. Lake Magadi often harbours large flocks of flamingo. The Ngorongoro Conservation Area, as a whole, is a photographers dream. Aside from the wellknown Ngorongoro Crater , Empakaai and Olmoti craters are scenic highlights as well. Another feature on the crater floor is Lerai forest, a yellow fever tree forest. This is a year-round safari destination.

Highlights

Selous

The Selous Game Reserve is one of the largest faunal reserves of the world, located in the south of Tanzania. It was named after Englishman Sir Frederick Selous, a famous big game hunter and early conservationist. The reserve covers a total area of 50,000 km² (19,000 sqmi) and has additional buffer zones. Within the reserve no permanent human habitation or permanent structures are permitted. Most of it has been set aside for hunting. The animal viewing area that is open to the public is relatively small but very rewarding, with many predator sightings and excellent boat safaris on the Rufiji River.

Ruaha

Ruaha is now Tanzania's largest national park and offers excellent wildlife viewing. It is particularly good for spotting predators, including very large prides of lion and the endangered wild dog. It is considered a seasonal with most lodges closing between March to May. The quality of the lodges is not as high as other regions.

UNIQUE ACTIVITIES

Unique Activities

Descend into the scenic landscape of the Ngorongoro Crater and enjoy the incredible density of wildlife before making your way to a private picnic spot on the Crater floor. An army of butlers' springs into action to attend to your every wish as you indulge in a mouth-watering meal served against the backdrop of groups of zebra strolling along the Crater floor.

Maasai Guard of Honour

This is an extremely popular activity for groups of guests. Guests are greeted on the camp terrace by two lines of Maasai warriors wearing traditional dress and carrying flaming torches. Maasai Cultural Visit

An adventure to the Serengeti wouldn't be complete without meeting the enchanting Maasai. This wonderful cultural excursion will immerse you in the fascinating ancestry of these noble people. At the Maasai village playing host to your tour, you will have the opportunity to meet with a Maasai family, visit a traditional boma, the village huts (called Manyatta), made of cow dung and clay plastered over stick frames, and perhaps venture to a local school or clinic.

Dining Out

Most of the top lodges offer international style cuisine with BBQ Bush dinners a highlight.

Local dishes include Mtori - cooked beef and bananas - and Mchicha, a vegetable stew with meat or fish in it. If there is anything that can be called Tanzania's national dish, then Ugali would most likely win out. A polenta-style dish made with corn flour, it accompanies cooked meat and a variety of stews, and it's eaten with your hands.

Chai Maziw a (chai with milk) is a local favourite and well worth trying if you can handle the large amounts of sugar added to this drink. Mandazi is a sweet doughnut-styled food that is made fresh each morning. Great with coffee in the morning, it makes an ideal snack.

Northern Tanzania has a number of great coffee plantations so be sure to pack some for your onward journey.
